From the Desk

A warm and sunny welcome to all of our Grapevine readers. Isn't it so lovely to at last see some sunshine, it really is a reminder that summer is on the way.

On page 3 the CFS give a timely reminder about being prepared for the upcoming bushfire season. We are sure that you will be preparing your property early and getting a bushfire plan ready with your family. If you need some help with your plan then why not attend the Hills Fire Expo at Kersbrook on the 18th October. It promises to be very informative. Information is directly below the CFS report.

On page 4 we have an article about Al-Ru, the open days are over the long weekend. Last year the Grapevine team made their way up to the farm and found it amazing, it's certainly something One Tree Hill should be proud of. Ruth and Alan are earning quite a reputation for having one of the best gardens in South Australia. We hope that you are able to attend, all proceeds from the gate go to the CFS and the Uniting Church are catering for Devonshire Teas and lunch with all the proceeds going to the less fortunate children in an orphanage in Uganda. WE also have the success of a local couple who entered their cattle in the Royal Adelaide Show again. Congratulations to Sarah and John Popow of Kamcheyenne Limousin.

Page 8 has the article and photos of Amelia's wedding

Page 8 also has an article about the use of Coconut Oil, it will save you a fortune so make sure you read it. Page 9 has our regular Police report plus information about the upcoming meeting on the 10th November, it's being presented by the Police. They want to work with the community to come up with solutions to crimes in the area. If you are not able to attend, email your questions to the organiser before the 10th Nov.

We have reprinted the notice about rabbits on page 22, Dale will come and get the pests free of charge, we also have a solution to skin tags that are annoying.

There is so much happening around One Tree Hill so keep an eye out for the information either in the Grapevine or on notice boards around the town. There will be a Pink Tea Party at the Institute on the 17th October, it's a great fundraiser for Breast Cancer Research so we hope you will make the effort and attend.

Plus there is so much more, enjoy your October edition of the Grapevine. Until next month, The Grapevine Team.

President's September Report 2015

Not a great deal of activity to report, apart from a donation by Judy Mortimer of an excellent sketch by Marilyn Theisel, a relative of the Mortimer family, who were long term residents of One Tree Hill. This sketch depicts an injured kangaroo, suffering burns from a bush fire. The artist was moved to complete this work after hearing of the many injured kangaroos from the January bushfires. We will find a suitable place to exhibit this work within the OTH Institute.

Progress is evaluating the merits of solar panels for the Hall. The Australian Government Department of the Environment has released the 2015-16 Solar Towns Programme which is available for Community Halls. Playford Council has been assisting Progress with their application as it may be eligible for this grant for the Institute. Although the building is leased from Council, Progress is responsible for the utilities and expenses. As we all know, utilities are always increasing in cost, and we are looking at ways to offset continuing increases. With low input rebates, we still may be able to make an economic case for the installation.

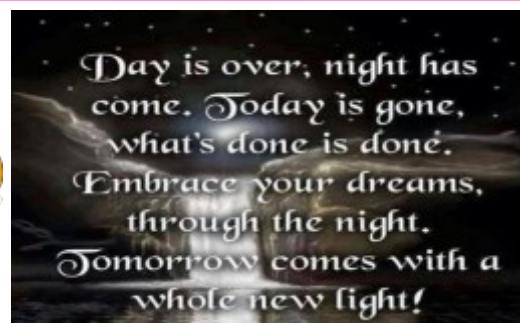

That's about it for the major items this month, I hope spring gardening is in full swing at your place - it certainly is at ours!

ONE TREE HILL GRAPEVINE CFS REPORT AUGUST 2015

Incident Report

September saw the CFS involved in a diverse range of incidents; with three vehicle accidents, two of which were roll-overs, a car fire, an out of control burn off, and two calls to assist SAAS. One of the SAAS calls involved carrying a woman with leg injuries out of a valley alongside Bassnett Road, using the new equipment featured in last month's edition of the Grapevine.

By far the most significant incident was a shed fire that occurred in the early hours of the 29th August. This was probably the largest fire that has occurred within the One Tree Hill township. Hero of the day was resident Mark Keen who was awoken by barking dogs to find flames leaping 20-30 metres into the air from the shed across the road and impacting on the neighbouring house. After reporting the fire Mark woke his neighbours and before members of the CFS and MFS arrived, used a garden hose to douse flames that had destroyed a pergola and spa and had spread into the eaves of the house. In addition to the house and shed, the large damage bill included several vehicles including vintage Minis that were stored in the shed. The members of the CFS thank Mark for his efforts and wish those affected by the fire well in their recovery.

Planning is well under way in the local CFS Group for the Region 2 Field Days which will occur in and around the OTH area on Sunday 18th of October. Field Days involve a number of activities focused on preparing for the upcoming season and will include Units from all over the Region, including Yorke Peninsula and the Mid North.

Spring has Sprung!

The beautiful warm days of Spring have arrived and you can already see a brown tinge appearing on some of the grass around the area. Council has started cutting the verges and it is pleasing to see that a lot of residents have begun preparations for the upcoming Fire Season. As always, there is still a lot to do and we encourage everybody to get stuck in early to avoid the risk by cutting and slashing after the grass has fully cured.

Although Summer still seems a long way off, it will be here before we know it. In recent years, our traditional summer fire calls have started during November and as CFS members we are about to go through our annual accreditation process. What about you, do you have your Fire Plan ready? If you have a Fire Plan it will pay to re-visit and include any lessons learnt from last fire season. Many people have mentioned that they never expected to have to defend or be away from their houses for extended periods and this is one of the areas where some changes may be needed.

For general information please contact One Tree Hill Duty Phone on 8280 7055.

You can also visit the CFS website or phone 1300 362 361.

HILLS FIRE EXPO

The Hills Fire Expo is being held on Sunday 18th October at the Kersbrook Primary School.

Residents across the hills are busy preparing for the coming summer fire season after the Sampson Flat Bushfire burned 12,500 hectares of native vegetation, orchards, vineyards and farmland. 24 homes were lost in the blaze.

To help hills residents to be fire prepared, Kersbrook Primary School is hosting the 2015 Fire Expo.

Hills Fire Expo will give the community the opportunity to understand the lessons learned from the Sampson Flat fire and to get more information on how to prepare their properties.

The Country Fire Service, Natural Resources Management, Community Engagement Officers, and retailers will be on hand to advise on fire safety, animal welfare and personal and home protection to help the hills community be bushfire ready.

Fire Expo will be open from 10am until 2.00pm on Sunday 18th October.

The whole hills community is welcome to attend and there will be a jumping castle for the kids and a BBQ available.

AL-RU FARM OPEN DAY - This Long Weekend

Al-Ru Farm will be having their Open Garden Weekend on the October long weekend. The garden will be open on Sunday 4th and Monday 5th October from 10am until 4.30pm each day. Don't forget to mark this in your diary.

The local CFS will be attending the gate with all proceeds donated back to them. The local Uniting Church will again support Al-Ru with excellent Devonshire Teas and Lunch, while you are there don't forget to try the excellent Carrot Cake. The Church is raising funds for their orphanage in Uganda.

The garden at Al-Ru is one of the largest and most admired gardens in South Australia having opened every year since the beginning of OGA in SA in 1992. Inspired by her visits to hundreds of gardens in every corner of the world, talented plantswoman Ruth Irving has created a series of garden rooms each with its own distinctive style and palette of plants. In Spring the woodland garden is awash with shocking pink Seline, electric lime green Euphorbia, Bluebells, Honesty, Campanulas, Dutch Iris and Crabapple blossom. There are colour themed borders, a Wisteria and Rose covered arch leading into the White Garden (a favourite spot for Weddings) and a Formal Rose Garden. The Rose Garden has been renovated and it's looking spectacular. New box hedges have also been planted and brick edging has been put in to enhance the structure. Thousands of Ranunculus bulbs add colour and tulips add architecture to the stunning spring display.

There are many romantic French provincial garden structures, urns and statues creating a distinctly olde world Mediterranean feel to the gardens.

The gate for entry to the property is located on the One Tree Hill Road near the T-Junction of Black Top Road and One Tree Hill Road.

The Plant Fair will once again be on lake lawn, these specialist plant nurseries will offer a huge variety of unusual garden related products and accessories.

We hope that you will visit the farm over the weekend and make it a huge success.

The weather was really switched on for bride Amelia Farrington (daughter of locals Marty and Pam from the One Tree Hill Post Office).

It was a wedding with a difference with Marty and Amelia riding down a track to the groom, Damian McArdle son of John and Julie from Paracombe.

Amelia grew up in One Tree Hill and attended the OTH Primary School, she now works in a real estate office in Salisbury.

Damien works at the family owned 'Chamberlain Orchards' where they produce the "Paracombe Perry" pear cider. Damien is the 4th generation pear grower. His great grandfather Errol Chamberlain started the orchard in 1932.

We wish the happy couple many years of happiness in their journey through married life.

Uses for Coconut Oil

Coconut oil has been around for many years but did you know that it is a cheap alternative to many expensive beauty products and treatments.

- 1: Moisturiser - Simply scoop some out of the jar and apply all over your body, including your neck and face.
- 2: Eye cream - Apply under the eyes to reduce puffiness, bags and wrinkles. Use on the lids in the evening.
- 3: Pre-shave - Coconut oil will prep skin for the pending damage caused by shaving.
- 4: Aftershave - It will also help heal your skin after shaving without clogging pores.
- 5: Deodorant - Coconut oil alone can be used as a deodorant, but even more effective in combination with cornstarch/arrowroot powder and baking soda.
- 6: Hair Conditioner/Deep Treatment - Use as a leave in hair conditioner by applying a teaspoon of coconut oil to your ends and then running your fingers through your hair to distribute the rest. For a deeper treatment, rub in a tablespoon of coconut oil onto your dry scalp and gently work through to the ends. Put a shower cap on to prevent transfer on to clothing or bedclothes.
- 7: Hair Gel/Defrizzer - Rub a little between your palms and either scrunch into hair (for curly hair) or finger comb in through from scalp to ends (for wavy/straight hair).
- 8: Make up remover - Use a cotton swab and dab of coconut oil and you will be amazed at how well it works.
- 9: Massage Oil - Pretty simple, grab some and rub on.
- 10: Chapstick - Just rub a little into lips and it not only acts as a softening agent but it also has an SPF of about 4 so get a little protection. It can also be used as a sunscreen.

11: Nappy Salve - Coconut oil is very comforting on baby's nappy rash. It is quite soothing.

12: Cradle Cap - Having issues with dry skin on your baby's scalp? Coconut oil will not only nourish your baby's skin, it also helps eliminate cradle cap. Just rub a teaspoon onto scalp daily.

13: Healing - When applied on scrapes and cuts, coconut oil forms a thin, chemical layer which protects the wound from outside dust, bacteria and virus. Coconut oil speeds up the healing process of bruises by repairing damaged tissues. Plus, it smells a lot better than rubs you buy for bruising.

14: Bug Bites - When applied directly to a bug bite, coconut oil can stop the itching and burning sensation as well as hasten the healing process.

15: Swimmers Ear - Mix garlic oil and coconut oil and put a few drops in affected ear for about 10 minutes. Do this 2-3 times a day and it usually works within one or two days.

16: Skin Problems - Coconut oil relieves skin problems such as psoriasis, dermatitis and eczema.

17: Nose Bleeds - Coconut oil can prevent nose bleeds that are caused by sensitivity to weather such as extreme hotness and extreme coldness. This condition happens when the nasal passages become dry because of cold or dry air resulting to burns and cracks in the mucus membranes so bleeding happens. To prevent this just put coconut oil in your nostrils. Dip a cotton bud in the oil and coat the inside of your nose. Doing this will strengthen and protect the capillaries in the nasal passages. A vitamin C supplement will also help prevent nose bleeds.

18: Body Scrub - Mix coconut oil and sugar together and rub all over. Rinse off and your skin will be super soft. You can add in essential oils if you like a specific smell.

You can find Coconut Oil in the cooking oil section of your supermarket or at a Health Food Shop.

Horse Care - How to Catch a Horse Part 2 - Training him to come

Assuming the horse has been well handled (not wild or unbroken), allow your new horse to get used to you. Have him in a small paddock or large yard for several days. Feed in one small area. Be consistent. Do not attempt to handle if at all possible. Feed several times a day if possible, small feeds. Each time you arrive, call with the same call you will use if he is out of sight in the paddock (not so loud though). I find "Come Ooonnn" works for most animals. The last note sounds a bit like a cow mooing. It seems to carry well. Make it a deep tone, not high pitched. It carries better.

Once he is moving toward the feeding area when you call, walk in and pat him on the shoulder before tipping the feed into his bin. He can now be let into a larger paddock as you know he will walk to his feeding area (and you can close the gate) whenever you call him.

The next stage is to carry the halter and lead rope when you feed. Don't get anxious. Just carry it in, and pat his shoulder, feed and leave.

Finally, you are ready to slip the rope around his neck. This may be the same day, a week later, or for difficult to catch horses, it may be a month. It takes as long as it takes. Don't put the halter on yet.

When you can call him from the paddock and he will walk to the feed area even with you standing around with the halter, he is ready to slip the halter on. Rope around the neck first, then the halter. For the first few times, this should be done in a small yard. He must not be allowed to return to his paddock until he has had the halter on. So: you are going to call him in from his paddock, close the gate, feed him and pat him, slip the rope around his neck, and put the halter on. If he is very difficult, this may be simply slip on and remove immediately.

Do not hold if you cannot stop him. Remove it before he gets silly. You might not do it up. He doesn't know the difference. He will think you have removed it if you do not start a pulling match which you cannot win. The point is to make him think that the halter is just part of feeding, not a precursor to work.

The final stage is to put the halter on a little further from the feed bin each time until you can walk into the paddock, call him to you, slip the rope around his neck then put the halter on, lead him to his feeding area, remove the halter and leave him to enjoy his feed.

At last we have a horse we can catch anywhere. A small treat held in the hand will encourage him to wait for the halter, but is no longer essential, as he assumes you will take him to a feed. Reinforce this idea as often as possible. Make a habit of catching him just to take him to a feed. It should not be to a timetable: you want him to do it at any time. Some days, just call him for a feed. Other times, catch him in the paddock and then feed. Try to always give a small treat every time you catch him, even if you are going to ride. Occasionally he may miss out, but the less times he does, the easier it will be in an emergency.

Now, when you have to catch him for an emergency he will walk toward you instead of giving you the run around.

If you have any horse query for Julie please email or post to the Grapevine and we will pass it on. P.O. Box 196, OTH, 5114 or Email:

From The Past - Assorted Clippings From The Early Days

ONE TREE HILL October 17, 1905

The Rev. J. McLennan, M.A., began his ministry in the One Tree Hill Presbyterian Church on Sunday, October 8, in connection with the Mount Pleasant Church. Mr. McLennan comes from Victoria, and his fame as a preacher has preceded him. A welcome social will be held next week.

ONE TREE HILL, October 15, 1919

A highly delightful concert was held in the One Tree Hill Institute on Saturday evening, when Mr. Walter Woods Adelaide Concert Part gave entertainment on behalf of the Institute's funds. The performers comprised of Miss Myrtle Ingham, A.M.U.A. Miss Kathleen Meegan, A.M.U.A. (pianist) Messrs Don Fraser, Harold Rule, and Walter Wood. The items were numerous and classical solos and duets, and were splendidly received in every instance, Mr. Rule provided much amusement by his clever manipulation of paper. The success of the entertainment was heightened considerably by the keen interest of Mr. and Mrs. Ifould, who worked hard so the concert would be a success and who were the host and hostess of the concert party. Mr. Ifould is the President of the Institute, and he has done a splendid service. During the evening sweets were sold. The takings were approximately £10. A dance followed.

ONE TREE HILL, October 4, 1915

A farewell social was tendered on Saturday evening to Pte. Blencoe, Brown, Shillabeer, McKenzie and Dorkins. The Chairman (Mr. F.L. Ifould) and Messrs. F. Moulden and H.H. Blackham delivered appropriate addresses, and a programme, consisting of songs and recitations, was rendered by the following:- Mrs. M.G. Smith, Misses Collins, and Moyes, Messrs., Catt, Thomson, Ifould, Adams, and Master G. Harvey. Mrs. G. Blake of Smithfield was accompanist. At interval Mr. F.L. Ifould, on behalf of the people of the district, presented each of the five young soldiers with a radio, wrist watch and a self-filling fountain pen. Pte. A. H. Blencoe responded, and said that they would always look back on the presentations as a touching reminder of the people of One Tree Hill. A dance followed.

In response to the military authorities appeal for sandbags, a number of residents assembled at Mr. H. H. Blackham's residence, and the result of two gatherings for the purpose was 170 bags, of which number 100 have been delivered to the authorities.

November 7, 1928

The crops in this district are on the whole much shorter than usual, owing to the long dry spell during the growing period. As in other districts, the fine October rains have made a wonderful difference in the prospects, and there will now be an average yield. The rain gauge has registered 3 inches 80 points for the month. Feed is good, and stock are in good order. There will be a good yield of apricots, but other fruit only moderate, as the weather was too cold at blossoming time. Beekeepers are preparing for a heavy yield of honey, as the red gums will soon be in full flower; this time of the year being the time for the majority of those trees to bloom.

Mr. Jack Harvey, of One Tree Hill, and his horse Dartford

Men of racing knowledge felt that Mr. Jack Harvey, owner-trainer of One Tree Hill, had made an error of judgement when some little time ago he turned down a Victorian sportsman's offer of 1,000 guineas for the gelding Dartford. Up to then the horse had done nothing outstanding but his owner felt that he was justified in refusing the offer as he felt the gelding would make good. Yet 12 months ago Dartford was on the verge of a breakdown. On that occasion he was pulled up by his jockey who thought he had foundered. Again at Port Pirie the horse shaped poorly; and in October last year, at Gawler, when a pronounced favourite, he eased down in the running of the Spring Handicap and finished almost in a state of collapse. After that, the stewards ruled that Dartford was never to start unless a veterinary certificate of soundness was forthcoming. Mr. Harvey readily agreed, and since then Dartford has won three races including the New Year's Gift at Morphettville.

On Wednesday, even after reaching the course, it was not known if Dartford would start in the Cup, as on the previous day he worked sluggishly, and appeared to have contracted a cold. Mr. Harvey, in agreement with the conditions of the stipendiary stewards, put his horse in the hands of the veterinary surgeon, who told the owner that the horse was fit to race but that a hard race might prove detrimental to him. On these circumstances, the stewards would not permit the horse's withdrawal, and Dartford finished with most happy results to his owner - stake money of £1,500 and the gold cup valued at £100.

Mr. Harvey has his own training track at One Tree Hill, and has been in the racing business for nine years. The first horse to credit him with a win was Redacre, and another good galloper to carry his colours was Greek Gift. Dartford was brought by his owner for the modest sum of £40, with a contingency of £30 out of his first £100 win. Mr. Harvey was happy to give all credit for Dartford's win to Mrs. Harvey, who virtually trained the horse and rode him in his work, and was greatly attached to the gelding. Mr. Harvey's Cup day racing was gloriously topped off by his second horse Toxaway winning the Renown Welter, bringing in a stake of £200. Toxaway, too, was another racing bargain, being purchased as a yearling for 27½ guineas, and is a half brother to Dartford.

Can you help "Mr Fix It" find his way through the maze to the hammer?

When I went to Melbourne, I went on the Puffing Billy. We got to stick our legs out of the side of the train. We liked it. When one of the ladies was talking to us on the Puffing Billy, she said there was a big landslide and they weren't allowed to do the Puffing Billy anymore; so they moved the track and got it going again.

Hannah, Age 7 years.

Not long ago, I went to the RAAF base with my Dad. I went because he was taking work experience students around. When I got there they were watching the army driving in their personnel carriers. There was one man who told us what they were doing. He said they were going to do leap frog. One of the personnel carriers would check the area to make sure there was no enemy, then it would move forwards, then the second personnel carrier would check it again and follow the same one. After that they came up and they took a photo of us in front of the personnel carriers. We got to go for a ride in the personnel carrier. You had to wear helmets when you were in them because it shook and bounced around a lot and they use their brakes a lot. It was good fun. I want to see more of what the army do.

Joshua. Age 11 years.

Jokes from Joshua:

Q: Why did the truck driver drive his truck over the cliff?

A: To test the air brakes!

Q: Why did the race car ruin the movie?

A: It had a spoiler!

Jokes from Riley:

Q: What breaks when you say it? A: Silence!

Q: Why couldn't the pirate play cards?

A: Because he was sitting on the deck!

Thank you Riley they are great jokes!

Q: What washes up on very small beaches?

A: Microwaves!

Q: What gets bigger and bigger as you take more away from it?

A: A hole!

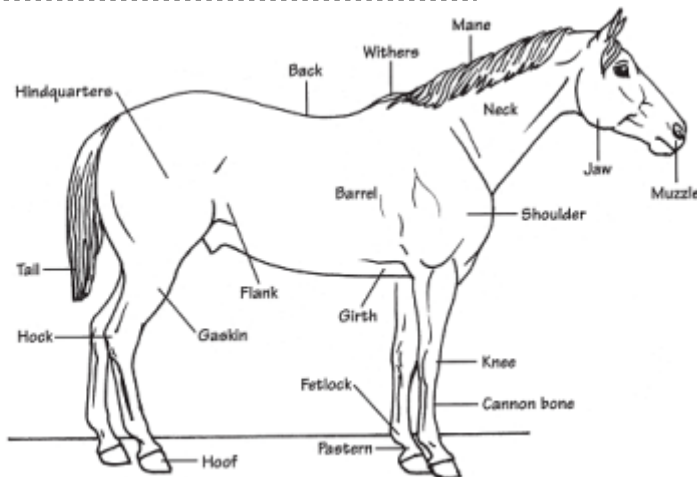

When we went away we had some baby lambs. They were really cute. I wish I could pat one all day.

When we went to Melbourne, we went to a caravan park for four nights. The first night when we went to bed, the tent flooded. Then all of us had to sleep in the caravan. One day we went out, and when we came back the tent was gone. The workers at the caravan park found it, it had blown right down the back of the caravan park. We were really happy that they found it. The next day we went to our friends place and stayed there in the caravan.

Mrs. Collin made a delicious tea. After tea the twins asked us if we wanted to play some games. I had a great time at their house.

Daniel, Age 9 years.

Goat's - Bottle Feeding Kids

Do not over feed. Too much milk will prevent proper development of the rumen.

Allow access to hay within a week of birth. They will not eat much, but nibbling on it will start them in the way they are to continue. It needs to be soft and tasty so they actively seek it by the time they are 2 weeks old. A small amount of a sweet feed (mixed grains or pellets) will help this, too. They only need ¼ cup per day and don't let a greedy one get too much. Make sure they also have access to fresh water. This is very important in hot weather. They will start to drink cool water from 4 or 5 days old if they are hot. Remove left over feed daily so it does not go mouldy and cause stomach upsets.

Feed sufficient milk in each feed so that the hollow flank (between the end of the ribs and the hips) is filled out. If it is distended, you have fed too much. Try to stop earlier in future. Some kids will drink more than is good for them. Others have to be coaxed to have any. As a rough guide, I fed 1.5 litres to 2 litres per day to my big (5 kg at birth) Saanen kids. Smaller breeds will need less. They usually drank 2 litres per day by the end of the second week, spread over 4 feeds. Do not increase the milk. You want them to start on other feeds if they are hungry. They can be fed milk for about 6 to 8 weeks. Early weaning may stunt them as can too much milk. They grow well until you take them off milk.

Try to ensure the kids have some colostrum in the first 24 hours after birth. If their mother has no milk, or she dies, use milk from another goat in the area if possible. If you cannot get any colostrum, buy a commercial one or make an artificial one. (The commercial one is expensive but increases the chances of the kid surviving). Artificial colostrum is for cleaning the bowel but does not add any antibodies which are essential for disease resistance.

If using a commercial milk replacer, use one that has been designed for goats, not for cows. The fat globules in calf milk will cause digestive upsets in kids and lambs.

Use lamb teats, available from good Fodder Stores. One type fits on most bottles and lasts a kid until weaned. There is no need for expensive feeding bottles with this one.

Kids are programmed to feed from an udder, not a bottle. So you have to teach it where the milk comes from.

If you lay the kid across your knees, the pressure on their belly seems to help stimulate them (I have no idea why). From this position you can control them easily. I used to lay them with their tail toward my left hip. Then my left hand holds their head, and I open their mouth by sliding fingers of my left hand into their mouth and removing the fingers when the teat is in their mouth. It seems they are stimulated to suck when they feel skin against a bare patch on their nose (hair later grows over this spot). Because of this, I put my left thumb on the bare patch and gently close the mouth around the teat. The right hand is then free to hold the bottle and gently move it in and out of the kid's mouth. Again, this seems to be something that happens naturally with their mum. I suspect that if the kid stops sucking, mum goes to walk away, so they suck harder and she stays.

The milk needs to be warmer than for a baby. It should definitely feel warm on your wrist, but not so hot as to burn.

When a kid is drinking, it needs to stretch its neck. This allows a channel to close and bypass the rumen. Don't think you are doing it a favour by coming closer. It needs to stretch the neck. Milk and water do not belong in the rumen.

Don't panic about how hard this is. In two or three days the only problem you will have is not getting hit in the knees when you approach the kid. They start butting you, looking for milk. Most kids learn you are the milk source within two days; the slow ones are hunting for the bottle in three. Discourage the butting as it leads to pushy adults.

Very occasionally you get kids that refuse to drink from a bottle (2 out of the 120 kids I hand raised). Try using a bucket or bowl (messy and you half-drown them to get them started) or if all else fails, mix milk with bran and chaff and a little grain or pellet mix. Just dampen it to start, but you can make it quite sloppy if they get the idea, or refuse the first attempt. Experiment. Powdered milk can be added to a damp mix to increase the milk ratio, too. This is not as good as liquid milk but may raise a resisting kid.

Do It Yourself Stump Remover

Do you have tree stumps that are looking unsightly or refuse to die? This is a cheap and easy way to get rid of them for good.

Drill several holes in the stump and fill the holes with 100% Epsom Salts. Follow with water, and wait. Live stumps may take as long as a month to die and start to decompose all by themselves.

What a great idea to save the mess while you are painting with small brushes!

Tree stump removal is well worth a try, and so cheap!

Cut pool noodles to hold brushes while painting. Yes, this is clever!

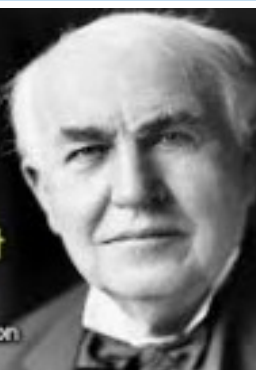

Forgiveness is unlocking the door to set someone free and realizing you were the prisoner!

Pesky Rabbits Eating Your Plants?

We have had a request from a Grapevine reader for the rabbit catcher's details. Apparently she has been inundated with these pests who are eating every plant in sight.

Dale has children attending the One Tree Hill Primary School so he is well aware of the rabbit problem we are experiencing at One Tree Hill.

Dale has been catching rabbits with his trusty ferrets for many years. He covers the exit holes from a burrow with wire or string nets and then puts his ferrets down the holes, the ferrets then chase the rabbits out.

If you have some rabbits that are causing you problems in the garden then Dale and his ferrets will come out and get them FREE of charge! Yes, that's right, no cost to you.

Dale then puts a meal on the table for his family who have eaten rabbits in well over 100 different ways, the whole family love rabbit meat, with rabbit stew being a favourite.

Phone Dale on 0421 226 130
and he will be out to see you soon

How To Get Rid of Skin Tags

Skin tags are very common skin growths that look like small, soft balloons of hanging skin. Skin tags are harmless growths that can vary in number from one to hundreds. Males and females are equally prone to developing skin tags.

If you are wanting to be rid of the skin tags, then try this harmless way of removing them.

Clean the skin around the blemish with lukewarm water and mild soap. Dry the skin thoroughly and gently scratch the surface of the skin tag with a toothpick. Don't let it bleed. Now soak a small piece of cotton ball in apple cider vinegar and squeeze out the excess vinegar. Place the soaked cotton wool on the skin tag and hold it in place with a bandage. Leave it on overnight. Remove the bandage and cotton wool the next morning and rinse thoroughly with water. Repeat this treatment for 3—4 days, until the skin tag darkens and falls off.

How easy is that? Good luck, just remember to repeat for 3 or 4 days.
